What should be done about E-waste?

Technology is evolving everyday and as it does, the things of the past become no longer useful as they are found incompatible with the latest technology systems. Just like a nuclear waste which are the full utilization in producing energy or nuclear bombs becomes no good for further use gets dumped, electronic items which go out of date, unfit for use and no longer be maintained.

It is the responsibility of every technology user to recycle the electronic waste or in other case ensure proper disposal. We @ CompuBrainTM are ever ready to be responsible to guide our clients in managing the issue of electronic waste.

CompuBrainTM encourages the recycling and proper disposal of electronic waste in line with established guidelines by administrative authorities.
