Data is one of the critical parts of your system. Data loss can prove fatal for an organization or an individual. Not just this but there are limitation on storage capacity of the devices which call for regular shifting of data to other long term storage devices.

Whether it is filling up of your hard drive or reoccurring faults that may cause data corruption and subsequent data loss, it is very essential that the data backup be scheduled from time to time. CompuBrain<sup>TM</sup> helps its clients plan, arrange and guide for regular and accurate scheduling of data backup activities.
